

Disaster Response... are you prepared?

What happens when there's a major disaster in this country? Who can you call upon 24/7 to provide emergency support in the event of a serious flood, a major explosion, power cut, fuel blockade or even terrorist attack?

AdlerandAllan

Disaster Response Experts Adler and Allan is the UK market leader in the provision of rapid response services to the public and private sector. Operating from an unrivalled network of bases, we respond quickly and effectively to emergencies that range from oil and chemical spillages to critical fuel deliveries, and include disaster recovery situations such as flood relief and firewater containment.

Adler and Allan has built the resources and skill base to tackle the most challenging of situations such as the Buncefield Oil Storage Depot explosion in 2005 and the floods of 2007. We are an approved contractor for public bodies such as the Environment Agency and Marine & Coastguard Agency, as well many blue chip industrial organisations.

Spill Response

We have the capability and expertise to tackle every emergency from marine pollution to a major industrial disaster such as Buncefield where we were appointed Principal Contractor for the clean up operation. Adler and Allan teams are on standby 24/7.

Rapid response, expert analysis and prompt action are the key components of effective oil and chemical spill clean up and damage-limitation. Highly trained professionals equipped with the latest spill and clean-up technology staff our national network of rapid response centres, ready to mobilise at a moment's notice.

Flood Relief

The summer 2007 floods brought to light how susceptible businesses & communities in the UK are to flooding. Our flood response teams can respond to assist in flood defences and pumping, tankering and disposal of flood waters.

Power Failures & Fuel Blockades

Energy suppliers are vulnerable to industrial action, power cuts and commercial shortages.

The Adler and Allan specialist tanker fleet is on 24/7 standby to handle fuel deliveries, fuel oil uplift and fuel oil transfer tasks in the event of emergencies.

Contingency Planning

Every business and organisation can experience a serious incident that can prevent it from continuing normal operations.

This can range from a major spill, flood or even an energy shortage. The management of the organisation have a responsibility to recover from such incidents in the minimum amount of time, with minimum disruption and at minimum cost. This requires careful preparation and planning. We can help by outlining the most common steps in contingency planning and offer operational solutions to assist in disaster recovery.
